Overview

Summary:

I am Amanda Carlisle. I am a Stay at Home mom of 3, who blogs in her spare time. I love to cook and bake! It is even better when the ingredients are fresh and on sale! I focus on shopping on a budget, and then bringing those items home and cooking delicious, simple, inexpensive meals that the entire family will love! I also highlight current freebies, and sales for other household needs! In addition to these things you will also find some Gluten Free and Dairy Free recipes on my site. There are allergies in my family and I know that this is an issue with others. I try to share as much as I can.

Benefits to Companies and Advertisers:

According to a recent study by BlogHer and Compass Partners, more than one-third (35%) of all women in the U.S. aged 18 to 75 participate in the blogosphere at least once a week. And that number increases if less-frequent visits are factored in. Of those women who are online any amount of time, 53% read blogs, 37% post comments to blogs and 28% write or update blogs, according to the study. This study does not take into account time spent on social media sites like Facebook and Twitter which increase time spent significantly as more and more women use social platforms to connect with family and friends.

Advertising on family/Mom run blogs takes advantage of this group of women who are the predominate decision makers when it comes to purchases in their homes. Moms make the majority of the purchases when it comes to food and household items. What a great way to advertise your products to these women!
